

Antoinette (Toni) Lecorchick is a retired Cleveland Municipal School teacher. She graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Education from Duquesne University and a Master's from Cleveland State University. As a teacher her goal has always been that a young person should be exposed to as many opportunities as possible. To enable students to experience such different opportunities outside of the classroom, she wrote several large grants.

Toni also worked on the founding committee that established the curriculum for the Cuyahoga Valley Environmental Education Center. She also contributed to the curriculum on the dangers of deforestation developed by the Cleveland Zoo, and traveled to Uganda to share and exchange many of these ideas with various classrooms. Toni was honored when asked to become a member of the board of trustees for Leaders of Today.
